Bismarck arrives in Berlin in fairly good health. He will at once proceed to push his favorite measures. Berlin newspapers continue their attack on Morier, but the public has grown weary of the matter. The Reichstag has a stormy debate over Socialist charges against the Government, Emperor William will open the Landtag to-

[COPYRIGHTED, 1889, BY THE NEW YORK ASSOCI-ATED PRESS.

BERLIN, January 12 .- Prince Bismarck was met on his arrival at the Berlin station by Count Herbert Bismarck and Dr. Schwener. He appeared to be in good health, but he walked stiffly, leaning heavily on a stick. He was accompanied by two large dogs. The Chancellor will address the Reichstag on Tuesday in the debate on the foreign office estimates, some of the items of which were postponed until his arrival

There is little doubt that he would have remained longer at Friedrichsruhe had not auxiety as to the possible bad effects which recent incidents might have on public opinn, urged him to come to Berlin, in spite of the fact, that he had barely recovered from the indisposition traced to his exertion during the recent fire at Friedrichsruhe. Immediately on his arrival last night he summoned Lieutenant Wissman to a conference on the East Africa bill. Herr von Bennigsen was also present, and the Chan-cellor acquainted himself with the disposition of the Reichstag on the subject.

BISMARCK TO THE RESCUE.

The Chancellor will personally defend the bill, which will be submitted to and passed by the Bundesrath without delay, and will probably be disposed of by the Reichstag by the end of the week. The question of its adoption is certainly insufficient to account for Prince Bismarck's hastening to Berlin. The preparations being made convey the impression that the provisions of the bill are being energetically pushed without waiting for the decision of the Reichstag. Lieutenant Wissman will follow the quickest land route, embarking at Brindist or Trieste. He is receiving numerous offers to join the new colonial

The explanation of the Chancellor's anxiety to return to Berlin must be sought in the outcome of the Morier and Geffcken affairs, though no attention should be paid to the rumors of the foreign press that his resignation is imminent. The attacks upon Morier have by no means ceased, and the apparently endless variations thereon are becoming wearisome and even disgusting to an impartial public.

THE MORIER CHESTNUT. The statement that letters from Morier had been discovered urging Geffcken to publish Emperor Frederick's diary will fail of effect, unless the text of the letters is published. Otherwise the public will not believe the statement, or, at the most, will suppose that the letters were simply acquiescent replies to Geffeken's intimation of his intention to publish the diary. No-body believes that Morier urged the publi-cation of the diary to spite Bismarck. The Kolnische Zeitung, returning to the charge | the land is extensive and underlaid with day, seeks to throw suspicion upon Morier's political character. It says:

There exists in England a powerful party which advocates an Anglo-Russian understanding, and Morier, who was formerly held in estoem by Queen Victoria and Empress Frederick forfeited their favor by the decided opposition offered to Battenbergism in the interests of this party.

hitherto held aloof from the dispute, toparty, it publishes an autograph letter from Emperor Frederick to Prince Bismarck on the occasion of the jubilee of the Chancellor's entry into the army. The letter is as

FREDERICK TO BISMARCK.

I do not wish to-day to enter upon a long disconsion of the statesmanlike merits which have bound up your name for ever with our history. But one thing I must point out, namely, that whenever there was a question of assuring the weil being of Germany and perfecting its defensive power and fighting capacity, you never failed to take up the struggle and carry it through to the end. The army, with the Commander-in-Chief at its head, therefore thanks you for the blessmey you have conferred uses you for the blessings you have conferred upon it, which I will never forget.

The Reichstag to-day, after a somewhat stormy debate, confirmed the election of Herr Goetz, National Liberal, as member from Leipsig. The Socialists accused the Government officials of illegal practices to secure his triumph over the Socialists' can-

The Emperor will open the Landtag on Monday. Yesterday he attended a dress rehearsal of Wagner's "Das Rheingold" at the Opera House. Only his personal suite and Count Hochberg accompanied him. The Emperor congratulated Kappelmeister Sucher, and instructed him to convey his congratulations to the artists. In the evening the Emperor and Empress gave a musical party to 70 guests, representing diplomatic, court and military circles.

The Emperor has ordered that the best boys and girls in the Berlin schools, both high and low, shall be treated in the evening of the 26th inst, to a performance at the Opera House of Wildenbruch's patriotic play, "Die Quitzows." The two oldest sons of the Emperor will be present at the per-

ANARCHISTS FEARED.

Herr Kruger, Director of the Detective Department, has reported that an agitation is being carried on by Socialists and Anarchists, and he advises that extra precautions be taken to protect the Emperor. Information has been received that a Frenchman broke the windows of the German Custom House at Avri court and threw in infiammatory documents.

The Nord Deutsche Zeitung, commenting on this news, says:

We are accustomed to worse things at the hands of France, and therefore we will not allow our blood to boil. We wish, however, to point out that the French officials refuse to take the necessary steps to detect the hero of this patriotic feat.

An officer of the French Engineer Re-serve corps named Dreyfus, who was recently arrested at Strasburg without a passport, and having in his possession sketches of the forts there, will be prosecuted for high treason. It is asserted in financial circles that the Italian Government has been negotiating for a loan, but was unable to agree upon terms with the German bankers.

Newsboys' Anvil Chorus. The announcement is made of two benefit performances in aid of the Newsboys' Home fund, to be given on the afternoon and evening of January 23 at the Grand Central rink. A number of prominent musicians, athletes and journalists have allied themselves for the purpose of estab-lishing the home for the waifs of this great city upon a sound financial basis, and to that end have secured the services of some of the best talent of the country.

The afternoon performance will consist of an excellent promenade concert and athletic exercises, participated in by members of a number of prominent local amateur associations. There will be bicycle races, hurdle races, 100-yard dashes, pole and flat jump-ing, newsboys' races and a number of dashing events that will be novel and highly en-direction of Prot. John Gernert. A feature of this programme will be the anvil chorus, with 40 red-shirted newsboys as the firemen. There will also be an address by one of the most prominent American divines, and several of the most renowned singers of the operatic stage will also appear. No pains will be spared to make this performance an artistic and financial success. Tickets have been to 500 ladies who are pledged to sell them. The price of admission to either performance is 50 cents, no extra charge being made for seats at the afternoon performance, while reserved seats to the evening performance may be had at the box office by exchanging tickets for coupons and the payment of 25 cents. Children's tickets to the afternoon performance will be sold at 25 cents. Eight hundred newsboys will parade around the track at the evening performance, and take raised seats at the back of the stage. The newsboys and bootblacks of the twin cities will parade the streets on several occasions scattering handbills.

MACADAM ROADS IN VIEW.

Cornopolis Coming to the Front With

Signs of Real Progress. Some of the people of Coraopolis want to get out of the mud. The development of the past few months has made the streets of the borough so bad that they are next to impassable, "not even jackassible," and some wideawake citizens have come to the conclusion that if there is to be any further progress there must be roads built, and though work has not been begun, the main difficulty has been overcome-the determination has been formed

As a beginning, what has been known as the Pittsburg and Phillipsburg road, which runs through the entire borough and Mill street, will be macadamized. The cost may reach $15,000, and bonds will be issued to pay for the work. It is said some taxpayers who have hitherto squirmed at the bare idea of the expense until they became so crooked they could not lie still in bed, have at last become so far reconciled, when its advantages have been fully explained, that they are gradually growing straight again. It must be done if the place is to continue to grow. The antiquated plan of piling mud on the pay road taxes by "soldiering" a few days it won't answer in a wide-awake village | Sterrett township. which Coraopolis begins to promise to be, at some time or other.

In view of the recent Law and Orde rosecutions, the following from the opinion delivered in the case of Crawley et al vs the Commonwealth, by Justice Sterritt, of the Supreme Court of the State, may be tertaining. The evening performance will of the Supreme Court of the State, may be consist of a grand orchestral concert, furnished by several allied orchestras, under the that the judgments obtained against Crawley in the lower court were for violations of the provisions of the Act of February 26, 1855, relating to the sale of liquors, while the Crawleys' license was issued in pursuance of the act of April 3, 1872, which repealed all laws and parts of laws in force relative to the sale of vinous, spirituous, malt or brewed liquors, or any admixture thereof in said county." The opinion first quotes from the opinion delivered by the Court in the case of Sanders versus Commonwealth, as fol-The effect of the third section of that act (Act of May 13, 1887) is to permit the granting of licenses under former laws to the 30th of June, 1887. This necessarily keeps in full force all the provisions and penalties connected with the granting of such licenses, not only up to the the granting of such licenses, not only up to the time aforesaid but until the expiration of such license. It would be a curious legal anomaly to hold that the liquor vender might have his license under the former act and yet be exempt from the conditions to which, by the same act, it was made subject.

The license in this case was granted before the passage of the act of 1887, for one year from February 1st of that year. During that year there was nothing to exempt the license from the provisions and penalties of the law under which his license was granted; and, if he incurred any penalty, covered by the condition of his license bond, and had been prosecuted to judgment for the same, his sureties would doubtless have been liable in accordance with doubtless have been liable in accordance with the provisions of the law under which the li-cense was granted. The sum claimed in this case is the aggregate amount of judgments re-covered under the provisions of an act not in force until after the license was granted. This decision reverses that of the lower Phenomenal as our business is, while other stores are playing to empty houses, we intend this week to attract the attention of every housekeeper wanting any kind of Household Furnishing Goods and Carpets to our wonderfully grand bargains. That people are not slow to see where their best interests lie, the immense quantity of reliable goods we sell is most conclusive proof. That the wives and daughters of our best citizens are quick to determine between brag and bluster of other dealers (whose business announcements are such as make them the laughing stock of all sensible readers) and reliable goods at lowest possible prices and on easiest terms of payment, is evidenced by the great number of lady patrons who daily throng our store. We're sacrificing our present stock of goods in order to make room for spring goods. Our Carpet Department will shortly undergo great alterations, and as an extra inducement for people to buy Carpets right now, we shall until February make and lay carpets free of charge. The good treatment we give everybody is proverbial, the politeness and courtesy of everyone in our store is well known. Come and see us.
